VARIOUS WEBSITES FOR TEENS

http://www.addictionrecoveryguide.org/treatment/special_services/youth/
An addiction recovery guide for teens.

<http://www.dosomething.org/>
Do Something was founded in 1993 by Andrew Shue and Michael Sanchez, childhood friends who had a dream to make community service as cool as sports. Do Something strives to make this a reality. We inspire, support, and celebrate young people (like you) changing our world.

<http://loveisnotabuse.com/>
Through its Love Is Not Abuse program, the Fifth and Pacific Companies (formerly Liz Claiborne) provides information and tools that men, women, children, teens and corporate executives can use to learn more about the issue and find out how they can help end this epidemic.

<http://www.youthwebonline.com/>
YouthWEB Online unites youngsters, teens and adults from diverse backgrounds and communities in the fight against bias, bigotry and prejudice. Young people can report hate-related incidents and get assistance along with information about hate crimes, school violence, discrimination and human rights.
